The first-year cadets made the voyage on board the frigate H.M.C.S. "Antigonish." For many it was their first sea experience; for most their first trip in a warship.

The Fourth Freedom

Freedom of the press has always been a timely subject, and this being National Newspaper Week, we pause to comment briefly on the Fourth Freedom.

Thoughts on the subject raise the question: What is Freedom?

Freedom to a lot of different people means a lot of different things. To a condemned murderer, it would mean escape from prison and the penalty of the crime. To a child scarcely able to walk, it would mean only freedom to toddle in the path of danger.

But we are concerned here with freedom for full-grown men and women, law-abiding citizens, who have intelligence and the God-given right to use it in the conduct of their daily lives.

Freedom in Religion means the right of the individual to worship the God or gods he chooses in the way he believes to be right. Or it means the right not to worship at all.

Freedom from Fear means that no law-abiding citizen need fear for life or limb at the hands of others. It means freedom to live a normal life without fear of any Gestapo or concentration camp.

Freedom of speech is a guardian of these two freedoms, because it gives the individual freedom to comment on how he is being governed, to criticize present laws, to suggest improvements, but not to advocate actions contrary to ill-fitting laws until, by due parliamentary process, those laws have been changed.

Where one man, by speech, can reach scores of people, by means of the printed word he can reach tens of thousands. The sound of the soap-box orator's voice reaches only a few hundred feet into the crowd. When he has spoken, the sound is wafted away into the still air. In the cause of Freedom, Free Speech is priceless to our democracy, but how utterly helpless it would be without Freedom of the Press! When, by speech, one man can reach dozens, the daily and weekly press reach millions.

Freedom of the Press, like any other freedom, implies responsibility in order that liberty may be retained. Guarding of this Fourth Freedom rests, in the main, on the Press itself. It must be forever true to the responsibilities that this Freedom has created, and it must guard carefully any attempt to encroach on this all-important Fourth Freedom. To paraphrase a noble slogan, 'Eternal vigilance is the price of Freedom!'

As advocates of Freedom, we cherish dearly Freedom of the Press in this Canada of ours. Some subversive elements in our midst would like, most of all, to throttle the Press of Canada, including this newspaper, to usher in a ruthless dictatorship where the Four Freedoms would not exist.

We represent only a small segment of the Weekly Press, but we hereby so dedicate ourselves to serve honorably and well our privilege to publish what we believe to be true about kings, governments, dictators and our readers, who, like ourselves, are common men and women who must be served in the unceasing fight for Freedom.

'Most Valuable Crop'

The Winnipeg Tribune, published for the urban residents of Manitoba, has printed a report stating that Western Canada's 1950 wheat crop is big and the most valuable since the war. There aren't many Alberta farmers who could agree with this line of reporting, for three important reasons.

The Alberta crop is not good except in a few districts, as to volume, and frost damage has not only reduced yields but has cut down in grades. We could never understand how the millers and bakers know whether to use No. 1 Northern or No. 4 wheat in their bread. They certainly aren't likely to sell flour and bread at a lower price simply because they are getting their wheat cheaper this year due to lower grades. Bread with a cheaper grade of wheat isn't sold at a lower price.

The guaranteed price, too is reduced. Just when the prices of everything the farmer has to buy are at the highest point in history, the wheat board has seen fit to reduce the price of what the farmer sells.

We would like to see the Winnipeg Tribune re-write their editorial sections of the "most valuable 1950 Wheat Crop" and bring them into line with reality.

Trouble on the Road

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

The twin problem of dangerous driving and poor roads was never more evident in Alberta than today. Arising toll of traffic tragedies has made the highways of this province, in the minds of some, a menace to life and limb.

And the highways have caused others to curse at the pot-holes, mud lanes, and other 'back-country' roads that pass as highways.

Just the same, mind you, there are miles and miles of fine highways in Alberta. But what concerns us are the high rates for automobile license plates, the fact that anybody at all can get a driver's license, and the government's policy, in the main, of spending only automobile revenue on road construction.

Now, to quote a few facts and figures, the government last year obtained over $13,000,000 from automobile revenue (license plates and fuel taxes), and on road work.

From capital account where the $55,000,000 from crown reserve oil lands go, they spent less than $2,000,000.

This means that the government, despite the fact we badly need new roads, is depending almost entirely on automobile revenue for such work.

And it never fails to make this writer wonder why the roads to the oil districts (and that's where the government is making all its money), are in such an awful mess.

There's no reason why a flat fee of $10 per private passenger car (as in Ontario), would not create sufficient revenue for 'regulation and control' of passenger cars. We say this because that is all the money from license plate fees is supposed to be used for.

It should not be used to pay almost the total cost of road construction. Construction of highways is a capital expense of the provincial government, because highways are essential to modern living.

And capital funds should be used to build them. The twin evil of this condition is that anybody can get a driver's license. In Edmonton, all you have to do is walk into the administration building, fill out a card, pay a small sum, and you've got your driver's license.

It doesn't matter what kind of a maniac you would be on the road!

There should definitely be driver's tests for all applicants. Furthermore, if a person is not up to par in his driving, there should be suitable instruction available for him.

Probably the best place to start, though, is with the high school students of today, who will comprise the majority of drivers on the roads tomorrow.

Driving classes should be included in the high school curriculum.

The Alberta Motor Association has launched a very worthwhile campaign for lower license fees, and for tests of driving applicants.

It's just possible that the Alberta Teachers' Association could do a lot of good toward ending Alberta's highway menace if they began working for driving classes in the province's high schools.

Scriptural Meditations

"There is necessity for diligence in prayer; let nothing hinder you. Make every effort to keep open the communion between Jesus and your own soul. Seek every opportunity to go where prayer is wont to be made. Those who are really seeking communion with God, will be seen in the prayer meeting, faithful to do their duty, and earnest and anxious to reap all the benefits they can gain. They will improve every opportunity of placing themselves where they can receive the rays of light from heaven."

Smile Awhile

The Honey Touch

A very dejected man walked into a restaurant one morning and sat down at a table.

"I want two eggs fried very hard, two slices of toast burned black and a cup of weak, lukewarm coffee," he told the waitress.

"Are you sure that's just what you want?" she asked, amazed.

"To the letter."

The waitress explained to the chef and managed to get the man exactly what he had asked for.

"Anything else, sir?" she asked as she put the order on the table.

"Yes, now sit down and nag me. I'm homesick!"

The Farm and Ranch Review made a name for itself across Canada on account of the masterly editorials of the late Charles W. This paper now features a series of paragraphs entitled "I Saw" scattered through the pages.

The following is my contribution to your such series, if you had one!

COMMENT FROM THE PRESS

(From Canadaink)

Cause and Effect

Several authorities have agreed that there are certain direct connections between the eye, the brain, and the muscles and organs of the body. Sudden motion or brightness may cause the head to dodge involuntarily and the eyes to blink. Under the stimulus of bright lights and vivid hues, muscular tension will increase and with this will go a rise in blood pressure and pulse rate. On the other hand, dim lights and soft cool hues will release tension and cause blood pressure and pulse rate to drop. (Modern Lithography page 87 June, 1950).

The West End

The proofreader on a small middle western daily was a woman of great precision and extreme propriety.

One day a reporter succeeded in getting into type an item about "Willie Brown, the boy who was burned in the West end by a live wire."

On the following day the reporter found on his desk a frigid note, asking: "Which is the West end of a boy?"

It took only an instant to reply: "The end the son sets on, of course!"

A News Section About Alberta People,
Week Ending Oct. 7, 1950Alberta Technocrats May Disband Organization Here

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

Alberta is the youngest, most populous province of the plains, and throughout its short history it has watched a wider variety of political and social schemes parade along the passing scene than any other province.

When the Liberal party went into temporary hiatus during World War I, it was succeeded by the United Farmers, who went the way of all political hybrids in the early thirties amidst a scandal that rocked Alberta from border to border.

Then came Social Credit, which of course is still entrenched in power.

But probably the most colorful social or political organism of all, and one which certainly attracted the most attention, was the movement of Technocracy, which made its first appeal in the depth of the depression, and has been hanging on to a scattered handful of supporters ever since.

Up until a few weeks ago the Technocrats still maintained offices in Edmonton. The closing of them, by apparently voluntary acceptance of failure, was one of the most unnoticed, but important, social events hereabouts.

When Howard Scott, the father of Technocracy, first arrived in Edmonton, the capital city was a depression-stricken town of some 75,000 people. He stopped here briefly on the last leg of a continental speaking tour (for his headquarters were in New York) and Technocracy was attracting attention all over North America in its first bid for supremacy. For 12 years before that, Scott had been working on various engineering projects throughout the States, meanwhile trying to figure out a solution to a problem this continent was soon to face—poverty in the midst of plenty.

He and a small handful of supporters came to the conclusion that because modern scientific developments, along with the widespread use of machinery, was making it possible to produce an abundance of goods and services for all in North America, then it must be the economic system that was at fault if the great mass of people were not sharing in this new abundance.

Scott studied the system, found it to be one which was based on price, and came up with the apparently obvious solution that the price system must be junked before security and abundance could be secured. He reasoned that there could be no abundance under a price system, because the maintenance of price demands a similar maintenance of scarcity.

So he and his associates launched Technocracy—a new social system that could end all the evils of the price system if only the people would accept it.

The name means, literally, "science rules," in distinction to the theory of people ruling themselves, as set out in the principles of democracy.

In the depression days, it wasn't hard to talk the idea of a new system to the people of North America. Technocracy went places. It sprouted local clubs, called sections, in all principal cities and towns of the United States and Canada. It began publishing its own magazine, operating squads of Technocracy Cars, set up an elaborate research organization, and trained speakers, writers, and radio commentators.

Then came the war, which Technocracy condemned as a conflict launched only to prolong the life of the system. For this reason the organization was banned in Canada. But it continued its activities in the States, and after Pearl Harbor came out in favor of full and vigorous prosecution of the war effort.

As a matter of fact, before the war was over, the ban on Technocracy was rescinded in Canada, and the organization began advocating Total Conscription, of men, machines, material and money.

During the war years, Technocracy looked back on how the price system nearly crashed during the depression, and they fully expected it to do the same after the war, only in less time than before.

As such, the long-predicted collapse of the price system hasn't materialized. It probably won't, for the system seems to be able to develop new ways of life, and to grow with events.

Which leaves the Technocrats in Alberta back where they were before—waiting. But today there's less of them than at any time since Scott first appeared on a lecture platform in the Foothills province.

Everyone Works At Harvest Time

No amateur at farm harvests, this pretty Albertan is seen digging in with a pitchfork to help with the fall crops. Equip farms with this kind of hired help and the farm labor problem would be licked overnight!

Hunters in Alberta Have Plenty to Remember

When Albertans set out for their fall hunting trip there's plenty of things they should remember besides the dates of the opening and closing of the season.

Tips to hunters are set out in a big poster just issued by the Alberta government.

Among other things, the poster points out that it's unlawful to hunt big game unless you're clothed in a coat and cap of seal-leather material, to kill big game animals under the age of a year or with horns less than four inches in length, to use dogs to hunt big game, to use aircraft or game birds in such hunting, and to remove evidence of sex from the carcass before you've got the animal home.

Farmers, incidentally, don't need a game license to hunt game birds on their own lands.

While Alberta hunters will generally enjoy an "open season" this winter, there's to be no hunting of moose, antelope, swans, cranes, quail or hen pheasants.

September and October are the hunting months for mountain goat and sheep throughout the province, and caribou and deer in the Athabasca Forest Reserve.

General deer hunting season is in November and December.

You can shoot most bears all year round, but you can nab the beaver only between April 1 and May 15 and only by special permit or registered trap lines.

But you don't need a trapper's license to take coyotes, porcupines, timber wolf or cougars. You do need one to trap most other fur-bearing animals.

Alberta's department of lands and forests, and its fish and game commission, under E. S. Huestis, has drawn up these regulations.

And as an added reminder, hunters when lost or in distress are asked to fire the official distress signal—three shots spaced five seconds apart. This signal should be answered by the firing of one shot.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Family No Aid to Girl
Who Supports Mother

Dear Louisa:—My brothers and sisters are all married and my mother lives with me.

Ever since I finished high school I have been supporting myself and paying board to mother. Now that all the rest of the children are married that is not, of course, enough for her to get along on but none of the others seem to think they have any responsibility in the matter at all. They not only expect me to support mother but to take care of her when she is sick. Is there any reason in the world why a girl should assume the care and support of parents just because she is single and has no one else to help out with the expenses?

UPSET.

Answer:

It is amazing how selfish some people are and how often families will pick out one poor member to be the goat and put every burden on him or her, as the case may be.

There is certainly no earthly reason why you should shoulder the whole burden of your mother's support and care. If you were the only child I know that you would gladly share everything you have and sacrifice your personal desires to care for her but when you have sisters and brothers who demand that you do so while they deny themselves nothing, that is a different matter altogether.

If I were you, I would have a family meeting—without letting your mother know about it—and tell them that you refuse to be the family goat any longer. They could either contribute so much a month which would take care of her or it could be arranged for her to spend so much time with each of them during the year. They will probably accuse you of being a thankless, selfish daughter but don't let that bother you. You have to prepare for that rainy day, even if you haven't children to support.

So let them do without a new car or radio, occasionally, while you buy a few hounds instead of groceries. When Aunt Minnie gets old and cranky, she rarely ever finds the welcome door mat out if she is poor but she is much more attractive to the relatives if she has a nice little nest egg put away.

So assert yourself now for it may be later than you think.

LOUISA.

Fire Loss Reported $1,000,000 Here

Alberta's worst forest fire seige in history cost the province about $1,000,000, according to J. L. Janssen, chief timber inspector of the provincial government.

Yet the contradicting thing about it is that last year forest fire damage amounted to $4,000,000. That was because thousands of marketable feet of timber were burned in 1949.

This didn't happen this year, but several towns were menaced, and the siege itself was more severe.

It has been reported that the blanket of smoke which arose from Alberta's fires, and spread over eastern cities, was as black as that produced by the eruption of Krakatoa in the Dutch East Indies in 1883.

Whiskey Prices Increase 5 Per Cent in Alberta

Prices of rye whiskey, dry gin and some imported rums increased in Alberta on Monday.

Price adjustments made by distillers to cover additional costs incidental to manufacture and distribution also account for the price rise.

Several other Canadian provinces increased liquor prices.

In Alberta, rye whiskey which previously sold for $4.70 for a 25-ounce bottle now costs $4.90. Bottles which previously cost $3.75 each increased to $4.10 and $3.55 bottles to $3.95.

"Prices raised by distillers are not uniform for all brands, which accounts for the difference in the amount of the increases," Mr. Mason, liquor board, said.

Price of dry gin advanced from five to 25 cents a bottle, but there will be no increase in the selling price of Scotch whisky and of some other imported lines.

Slight increases will be effective on some imported rums and on certain liquors.

TEACHERS ATTEND THREE MORE CONVENTIONS IN ALBERTA TOWNS

Two Hills, Bonnyville and Lac la Biche were scenes of teacher conventions last week. These were the fifth, sixth and seventh conventions to be held in Alberta this fall.

Seventeen will be held in all, and two more will be held next February. These will be attended by the city teachers in Calgary and Edmonton.

Teachers of Two Hills and surrounding A.T.A. locals gathered at Two Hills Monday and Tuesday. Convention venue switched to Bonnyville on Tuesday and Wednesday and to Lac la Biche on Thursday and Friday.

Prominent educationists attended all three conventions. Guest speaker was Dr. Wilbur A. Yaich, principal of the Training School and Professor of Education at the University of Ohio. Other convention guests who participated in the programs were E. J. M. Church of the provincial department of education and W. E. Hodgson, a member of the staff of the University Faculty of Education. Eric C. Ansley, general secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Teachers' Association was present at all three conventions.

The conventions were sponsored by the Local A.T.A. Executives in each area and were attended by teacher delegates from the surrounding Locals and their sub-locals.

The province-wide convention schedule is so arranged that the prominent guest educationists will be able to cover most of them during their six-week stay in the province.

INCREASED WHEAT PAYMENT ASKED BY UNITED GRAIN GROWERS CHIEF

Initial payment by the Canadian Wheat Board on all grades of wheat should be increased by 15c per bushel and prompt settlement on past year's crops should be made by the wheat board with some participation by the government of Canada.

President J. E. Brownlee, K.C., of United Grain Growers Limited made a statement to that effect recently on behalf of the Company's Board of Directors in session here, as follows:

"Because of present financial needs of a great percentage of farmers it is important that the Wheat Board should pay out as soon as possible the tens of millions of dollars which it is now holding representing remaining proceeds from sale of wheat in the 5-year pool which was closed on July 31st and from the marketing of oats and barley during 1949-50.

To make immediate payment possible we urge that Wheat Board accounts in respect of such grain be closed at once by transferring to the Government at current market prices all old crop grain remaining on hand. The government should assume the limited risk of loss on subsequent sale, and no such loss should be transferred in Wheat Board accounts, to farmers delivering grain during the current crop year.

Additional payments such as suggested in respect of the current crop and past deliveries are urgently needed, and if made will go a long way in improving the financial position of farmers and the whole economy of the country."

Lancaster Craft Flies Again With RCAF

Giant Lancasters, the night bombers of World War II, are coming out of retirement at Malton, Ont., and being prepared for maritime reconnaissance service with the RCAF. The big ships, as shown here, will have to have a considerable renovating and re-equipping before going into service again.

Farmers Ask Government For Control of Prices

Representatives of Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers recently called on the federal government to control prices, wages and profits or grant the farmer higher prices for his products to assist him through current unsettled economic conditions.

These, among other requests, were made in a 5,000-word brief presented to Trade Minister Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner by C. J. Stimpfle of Edmonton, president of the Farmers Union of Alberta, and J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union.

Though farmers have been "patient," the two western farm leaders said they were not prepared to accept the situation without further protest.

"Many individual farmers and groups of farmers have been advocating a withholding policy," they said in the brief. "Others who are yet more disturbed, advocate a non-delivery strike."

The brief said farmers were dissatisfied because they did not feel they have been given increases in return comparable with those gained by other sections of the Canadian economy.

The groups led off with a request that price controls be reimposed on all goods, services, rents, wages and profits, including the prices of agricultural products, "on an equitable basis."

Failing this, they asked immediate increases in the initial prices on all grades of wheat.

Gabriel Pascal hopes to start making a new film, "Androcles and the Lion" in Rome in the middle of December.

Christian Living Demands Surrender to Christ

Personal commitment to Christ is a necessary part of every Christian's life. This means the surrender of oneself to Christ, and it involves several important steps.

Jesus himself in Matthew 16:24-

25, outlines the steps very clearly. First, he says "If any man (or woman) would." In order to become a follower of Jesus Christ, one must make up his or her mind to do so. Any man or woman is free to do so, if he really wants to become a follower of him. Then, Jesus declares that that person who would be his follower must be willing to pay the cost, for it does cost something to be a Christian. The cost gets progressively higher, too, as one goes along.

Jesus says, "Let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." What does he mean by declaring that his follower must "deny himself"? He means just what he says. One who would really be a follower of Jesus must put his own selfish desires away, must desist from demanding his own way all of the time, must be willing to say, "Not my will but thine be done!"

"And take up his cross." An old Scottish minister, William M. Cowie, often used to say that Christians confuse a cross with a burden or a thorn. "A burden means the care and strain of daily life. It includes all that makes life go hard; wearisome daily tasks; duties that exhaust us with their monotony or difficulty; responsibilities that shake our nerves and keep us from sleep at night. A thorn tells of keenest anguish. The term describes some humbling affliction of the body, some mortifying disability, some weakness that makes one wretched, and unfits one for a full day's work."

However, "The Cross of the Christian differs from any burden or thorn. The cross he could escape, and he would if he were not a follower of the meek and lowly Saviour. . . . Your cross is something you can take or refuse. It may be some care of another, whom you could refuse to help; some sad lot of life that you could escape; some poverty that you could leave behind if you compromised with the devil; some concern for others that would keep you back from fame and fortune. All this you could refuse to touch, or even face; at least you could if you were not a Christian. No one but you and God may know about this cross, and how hard you find to take it up each morning when you awake from sleep. All of this and more enters into crossbearing."

Personal commitment to Christ means the willingness to answer his call to training and leadership.

CANADIAN DAIRY FARMERS PLAN NATIONAL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Dairy Farmers of Canada national advertising campaign will get underway in December, stated President Gilbert McMillan following meetings of the dairy farmers directors in Toronto recently.

With 400,000 dairy farmers putting up $300,000 plans call for advertising of dairy foods and regular information services to

Canadian housewives regarding the use of dairy foods.

Mr. McMillan pointed out that dairymen realized Canadian housewives had a tough job in preparing three interesting meals each day in line with the family budget. For that reason dairymen were interested in getting across the fact that dairy foods were not only good foods, but economical to buy. Through a new dairy information service to be announced in the near future housewives would be made aware of not only the value but new ways of handling dairy foods.

Christian Living Demands Surrender to Christ

Personal commitment to Christ is a necessary part of every Christian's life. This means the surrender of oneself to Christ, and it involves several important steps.

Jesus himself in Matthew 16:24-25, outlines the steps very clearly. First, he says "If any man (or woman) would." In order to become a follower of Jesus Christ, one must make up his or her mind to do so. Any man or woman is free to do so, if he really wants to become a follower of him. Then, Jesus declares that that person who would be his follower must be willing to pay the cost, for it does cost something to be a Christian. The cost gets progressively higher, too, as one goes along.

Jesus says, "Let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." What does he mean by declaring that his follower must "deny himself"? He means just what he says. One who would really be a follower of Jesus must put his own selfish desires away, must desist from demanding his own way all of the time, must be willing to say, "Not my will but thine be done!"

"And take up his cross." An old Scottish minister, William M. Clow, often used to say that Christians confuse a cross with a burden or a thorn. "A burden means the care and strain of daily life. It includes all that makes life go hard: wearisome daily tasks; duties that exhaust us with their monotony or difficulty; responsibilities that shake our nerves and keep us from sleep at night. A thorn tells of keenest anguish. The term describes some humiliating affliction of the body, some mortifying disability, some weakness that makes one wretched, and unfits one for a full day's work."

However, "the Cross of the Christian differs from any burden or thorn. The cross he could escape, and he would if he were not a follower of the meek and lowly Saviour. . . . Your cross is something you can take or refuse. It may be some care of another, whom you could refuse to help; some sad lot of life that you could escape; some poverty that you could leave behind if you compromised with the devil; some concern for others that would keep you back from fame and fortune. All this you could refuse to touch, or even face; at least you could if you were not a Christian. No one but you and God may know about this cross, and how hard you find to take it up each morning when you awake from sleep. All of this and more enters into crossbearing."

Personal commitment to Christ means the willingness to answer his call to training and leadership.

CANADIAN DAIRY FARMERS PLAN NATIONAL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Dairy Farmers of Canada national advertising campaign will get underway in December, stated President Gilbert McMillan following meetings of the dairy farmers directors in Toronto recently.

With 400,000 dairy farmers putting up $300,000 plans call for advertising of dairy foods and regular information services to

Mark's gospel tells us of Jesus' call to his disciples, four of whom are mentioned in our scripture for this lesson. Simon and his brother, Andrew, James and his brother, John, were his busy at their daily tasks when Jesus called them to become "fishers of men." It is significant that these men were active, successful workers and it is significant that today, the call to leadership in the churches of the world usually comes to the busiest, most active people. The call of Christ to service does not always mean the abandonment of one's chosen profession but it does mean the willingness to put him first in that vocation.

Canadian housewives regarding the use of dairy foods.

Mr. McMillan pointed out that dairymen realized Canadian housewives had a tough job in preparing three interesting meals each day in line with the family budget. For that reason dairymen were interested in getting across the fact that dairy foods were not only good foods, but economical to buy. Through a new dairy information service to be announced in the near future housewives would be made aware of not only the value but new ways of handling dairy foods.
